Excerpt: . . . 11 for exploitation and potentially for disruption or destruction, and its being done by an increasing array of both non-state and state adversaries. Network defense technologies are widely available to mitigate threats, but they have not been uniformly adopted. A number of nations, including Russia and China, can disrupt elements of our information infrastructure. We must take proactive measures to de-tect and prevent intrusions before they cause significant damage. We must recognize that cyber defense is not a one-time fix. It re-quires a continual investment in hardware, software, and cyber de-fenses. In conclusion, the international security environment is complex. The global financial crisis has exacerbated what was already a growing set of political and economic uncertainties. Were neverthe-less in a strong position to shape a world reflecting universal aspirations and the values that have motivated Americans since 1776: human rights, the rule of law, liberal market economics, and social justice. Whether we can succeed will depend...
