*It is one of my personal favorite pdfs. Of course, it really is playful, nevertheless an amazing and interesting literature. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the Department of the Treasurys Office of Technical Assistance (OTA) foreign aid program, focusing on: (1) the types of technical assistance OTA advisors have provided to Russia and Romania; (2) oversight by OTA of advisors activities; (3) advisor qualifications, program cost, fund transfers between the Agency for International Development and the Treasury; and (4) the location of the Treasurys senior advisors to its program. GAO noted that: (1) the Treasurys technical assistance advisors in Russia and Romania have assisted in efforts to reform tax and budget systems, improve banking and debt management policies, and enhance law enforcement; (2) in support of these initiatives, Treasury advisors have helped countries devise new systems and approaches to management of their finances, drafted legislation and procedures, and developed economic models; (3) host-government officials for the most part indicated that the advice received from the Treasurys advisors was beneficial to their reform efforts; (4) the advisor program has been carried out with little formal structure; (5) the only clear mandatory requirement is the filing of monthly reports, and reports of varying content were generally filed on a regular basis; (6) however, other documents OTA officials say they use in their oversight, such as host-country agreements, work plans, and the results of supervisory trips, were not available; (7) OTA has also been lax in enforcing advisors financial disclosure requirements; and (8) in response to GAOs observations, OTA told GAO that they use informal means such as electronic mail and telephone calls to carry out their oversight of advisor activities.
